

HOME COMFORT WAREHOUSE

“The Art of Fire”

A hearth appliance is a focal point in the home that should add comfort and enjoyment for many years. As such, we take our business seriously, ensuring the appliance meets the needs of our customers. Product installations comply with both the manufacturer’s directions and to state or local codes.

Home Comfort Warehouse employees have over 50 years of combined experience in the hearth industry. Most of this experience was with Vermont Castings in various management positions. All employees attend manufacturer sponsored training sessions. These sessions are technically oriented since manufacturers are constantly updating existing products and introducing new ones.

We offer the best selection of hearth products in the twin state region. Given the constant flow of new products we find it necessary to turn over one-fourth of our showroom models each year, replacing outdated product with the latest equipment on the market. Our customers not only see a wide variety, but also the latest introductions.

One frequent question we get is “which fireplace (or stove) do we prefer?” Actually we have no preference. We would not represent a product that is unreliable or one that wouldn’t meet our customer’s expectations. You should make the brand decision based on styling, size and budget recognizing any product chosen will provide you with years of reliable service.
